

Fall Fun with Nature Study in Polymer Clay Cyndi Cogbill - Pawpaw Patch Productions

Goldenrod Gall and Polymer Clay Toy

When: Saturday, September 6, 9:00 - 11:30 am

Who: Anyone 5 and older (children 5-12 must be accompanied by an adult)

Cost: $25 for the first child, $12 for additional family members, helping adults free (a portion supports the center)

Where: Wildcat Glades Conservation & Audubon Center

Make an updated version of this old-fashioned toy using a goldenrod gall stem and polymer clay. While your creation cures, you will discover these amazing flowers (goldenrods) and the cool creatures that hang out on them. You will also receive detailed tutorials and nature funsheets about the goldenrod flowers and gall.

Painting Wildflowers in Polymer Clay

When: Saturday, September 6, 1:00 - 4:30 pm

Who: Anyone 15 and older

Cost: $35.00 (a portion supports the center)

Where: Wildcat Glades Conservation & Audubon Center

You will learn simple techniques to make fabulous polymer clay paintings of wildflowers. While your creations cure, we'll check out the local wildflowers and I'll share identification tips. You will take home your projects and complete tutorials including lots of photos. Upon registration, you will be provided a small list of clay to purchase so you have the colors you prefer.

Registration required by emailing pawpawpatchpro@yahoo.com or calling 417-825-3318 by 12 Noon on Friday, September 5.